Band Score

Band 6.5

Original Essay

The tables compare the sales of Fairtrade-labelled coffee and bananas between five European countries in 1999 and 2004.

UK saled the most Fairtrade-labelled coffee in 2004, while Switzerland was the largest seller of bananas in both 1999 and 2004. The sales of these Fairtrade-labelled goods rose dramatically over the 5-year period in most countries, except for Sweden and Denmark in terms of bananas.

In 1999, 1.5 millions of euros of coffee were sold by UK, and the sales of Switzerland were 3 millions of euros. However, althought Switzerland presented an rising trend , UK overtook Switzerland in 2004 and ranked the first with 20 millions of euros. The other three countries all saw a slight upward trend from 1999 to 2004.

As for bananas, it was no doubt that Switzerland contributed the largest proportion, and the others made up a minimal share. Over the 5-year period, Switzerland, UK and Belgium all saw a dramatic upward trend, whild Sweden and Denmark decreased.

Grammar & Spelling Check

Case 1

Original: UK saled the most Fairtrade-labelled coffee in 2004

Corrected: UK sold the most Fairtrade-labelled coffee in 2004

Reason: Incorrect past tense form of the verb “sell”.

Case 2

Original: 1.5 millions of euros

Corrected: 1.5 million euros

Reason: “Million” should not be pluralized when used with a specific number.

Case 3

Original: the sales of Switzerland were 3 millions of euros

Corrected: the sales in Switzerland were 3 million euros

Reason: Incorrect plural form and awkward expression.

Case 4

Original: althought

Corrected: although

Reason: Spelling mistake.

Case 5

Original: presented an rising trend

Corrected: presented a rising trend

Reason: “Rising” begins with a consonant sound, so “a” should be used instead of “an”.

Case 6

Original: trend **,

Corrected: trend,

Reason: Unnecessary space before punctuation.

Case 7

Original: ranked the first

Corrected: ranked first

Reason: Incorrect article usage.

Case 8

Original: with 20 millions of euros

Corrected: with 20 million euros

Reason: “Million” should remain singular after a number.

Case 9

Original: it was no doubt that

Corrected: it was undoubtedly true that

Reason: Incorrect expression. “There was no doubt that” is also acceptable.

Case 10

Original: whild Sweden and Denmark decreased

Corrected: while Sweden and Denmark decreased

Reason: Spelling mistake.

Score Improvement Suggestions

Case 1

Original: rose dramatically

Corrected: increased significantly

Reason: “Increased significantly” sounds more formal and academic.

Case 2

Original: made up a minimal share

Corrected: accounted for a relatively small proportion

Reason: More precise and suitable for IELTS Task 1.

Case 3

Original: saw a dramatic upward trend

Corrected: experienced a substantial increase

Reason: Avoids repetitive use of “trend” and improves lexical resource.

Vocabulary Enhancement

Case 1

Original: compare

Corrected: illustrate, present, show

Case 2

Original: rose dramatically

Corrected: increased sharply, climbed considerably

Case 3

Original: slight upward trend

Corrected: modest increase, gradual rise

Case 4

Original: largest seller

Corrected: leading market, highest sales figure

Corrected Essay

The tables compare the sales of Fairtrade-labelled coffee and bananas in five European countries in 1999 and 2004.

The UK sold the most Fairtrade-labelled coffee in 2004, while Switzerland was the largest seller of bananas in both 1999 and 2004. The sales of these Fairtrade-labelled goods increased significantly over the five-year period in most countries, except for Sweden and Denmark in terms of bananas.

In 1999, 1.5 million euros’ worth of coffee was sold in the UK, while the figure for Switzerland was 3 million euros. However, although Switzerland showed a rising trend, the UK overtook Switzerland in 2004 and ranked first with 20 million euros in sales. The other three countries also experienced a slight upward trend from 1999 to 2004.

As for bananas, there was no doubt that Switzerland accounted for the largest proportion of sales, while the other countries made up a relatively small share. Over the five-year period, Switzerland, the UK, and Belgium all experienced substantial increases, while Sweden and Denmark saw declines.